As her veiled forehead falls a lock of her bright hair

Drooped down her cheek caressing

O how O how reveal to her my vow.

She speaks Ah what music and yet Alas.

I hear knocking

But her eyes speak gently for her + my heart to

THIS PROGRAMME ADMITS TO ALL CONCERTS OF THE SERIES

The span of 25 years (1906—1931) has been deliberately chosen as a remarkable period of resurgent interest in the composition of Chamber works in Britain. The programmes, chosen from an abundant repertoire, show the tendencies of this period towards new harmonic textures, new combinations of instruments and voices, and new forms. It was during this period that the "phantasy" established itself in favour as an art form, and it persists to this day, not only in Chamber Music, but also in other fields of composition, where the full symphonic range of movements is normally employed.

Happily many of the composers represented in this series have continued to add to the repertoire since the period now under review. Their works have doubtless had a formative influence on the later generation of British composers who have since been making their significant contribution to the rich repertoire of British Chamber Music which now exists.

The Performing Right Society has granted free permission for the use of its repertoire and the concert-givers desire to thank the composers and the owners of the copyright of the music performed for their generosity in forgoing the fees to which they are entitled.
